In His opening address, His Excellency Dr. Siaka STEVENS, President of the Republic of Sierra Leone welcomed his colleagues to Freetown. He noted with pride and satisfaction, the progress the Community has made towards the implementation of the provisions of the Treaty. He exhorted His colleagues to help build on the solid foundations already laid. As the Community has reached the stage of implementing its decisions, He hoped that Member States will demonstrate the same determination and enthusiasm that brought the Community together six years ago, to overcome the obstacles that may lie in the path towards removing the constraints to the development of a healthy and viable Community.

The outgoing Chairman of the Authority, His Excellency Army General Gnassingbe EYADEMA gave a report on the Community's Priority Work Programme and especially the activities undertaken by the Community during His tenure of office. He recalled that the last ECOWAS Summit held in Lomé, Togo on 27 and 28 May, 1980 completed the laying down of the basic institutional infrastructures and the formulation of general Community policies and programmes. President Eyadema indicated that preparatory actions were taken aimed at ensuring the coming into effect of the Trade Liberalisation Programme as from 28 May, 1981.

[illegible]

Liberalization Programme as from 28 May, 1981.

He underscored the importance of this Programme in the general Community objective of economic integration. He indicated that sources of finance had been identified for the Telecommunication Programme and informed His Colleagues of the initiatives taken during the year to draw up regional cooperation programmes in monetary matters and in the field of energy. He expressed His hope that the Community programmes in the agricultural and industrial sectors would lead to the evolution of a common policy on production and pricing. For this reason, He proposed that a meeting of the Ministers of Agriculture be held as early as possible.

Finally, the outgoing Chairman noted the problems that the Community continued to face during the year with respect to the fulfilment of Member States' obligations - especially as concerns the prompt ratification and correct application of Community Protocols, Decisions and Programmes. He made a solemn appeal to all Member States to endeavour to faithfully discharge their obligations towards the Community.

In their respective statements, Presidents Shehu SHAGARI, Mathieu KEREKOU and Samuel K. DOE thanked President EYADEMA for His able leadership and devotion to the Community and congratulated the incoming Chairman of the Authority, President Siaka STEVENS on His election as Head of the Community. They referred to some essential features of the integration effort being undertaken in the West African sub-region through ECOWAS. Specific reference was made to the prevailing atmosphere of good neighbourliness and the need to preserve this. It was pointed out that everything should be done by national immigration authorities and other departments concerned to make the Protocol on Free Movement of Persons to operate smoothly.

Special emphasis was placed on the necessity for well-qualified, efficient and dedicated personnel to staff the institutions of the Community. In this regard, an appeal was made to Member States to release qualified officials on secondment to serve the Community - even if on short-term basis. The shortage of indigenous expertise could be supplemented by seeking the technical assistance of the relevant international institutions such as the United Nations specialised agencies.

There was need to be vigilant and to review attitudes in order to ensure an unhampered development of the physical, social and economic cohesion of the Community and for rapid economic integration and greater collective self-reliance. There was a call for mutual respect and spirit of solidarity. While recognising the need for ECOWAS to continue to strive to secure its borders, reference was also made to the need for being mindful of developments on the African scene as a whole - particular mention was made of the situation in Chad and Namibia.
